As an experienced professional in the software industry, I initiated my career by working on projects with various programming languages. Recently, my primary focus has been on React Native, and I have dedicated myself to continuous improvement in this field. By sharing various software projects on my GitHub page, I have contributed to the open-source community. I have demonstrated strong problem-solving skills and an innovative thinking approach, showcasing successes in projects. My current goal is to deepen my expertise in React Native and develop creative and effective mobile applications. With a diligent, open-minded, and team-oriented approach, I maintain my excitement for exploring new opportunities in the software world.
